WELCOME MESSAGE

Dear Colleagues, guests, and friends,

On behalf of the European Society of Thoracic Surgeons (ESTS) and the Local Organizing Committee we are pleased to invite you to the 20th European Conference on General Thoracic Surgery in Essen, Germany from 10 -13 June 2012. This conference will continue the success of the preceding conferences in Krakow, Valladolid and Marseille and will provide a legacy for those to come. The groundbreaking scientific program will draw together many thoracic surgeons and specialists from Europe and all over the world. More than 1000 participants are expected to join this unique scientific event.

Essen is one of the most important business locations in the Federal Republic of Germany and is a center of decision-makers in German industry. Ten of the 100 companies with the highest sales in Germany have their headquarters in Essen. With roughly 600,000 inhabitants, the trade and services center of Essen is the eighth-largest city in Germany in the heart of North Rhine-Westphalia, the federal state with the strongest economy. With its history spanning 1,150 years, Essen can boast not only lovely areas and fascinating nooks and crannies, but also outstanding examples of urban culture. "Change through culture, culture through change" was the motto with which the city of Essen, representing the 53 cities and communes of the Ruhr area, successfully applied to be European Capital of Culture 2010. This award reflects the enormous achievement of a region that was once dominated by the heavy industry and had to chart a new course after the decline of that industry. Winding towers and blast furnaces are things of the past- the skyline of the former coal and steel city is today dominated by office towers and glass facades. The imposing cityscape silhouette reflects Essen's significance as the business center of the Ruhr Metropolitan Region, which is one of Europe's largest conurbations alongside London and Paris.

The departure from coal and steel was accompanied by the drive towards becoming one of the most diverse and densest cultural landscapes. What used to be boiler houses and machine halls became cultural hotspots and a comparable wealth of different theatres, musical performances, museums, design and architectural achievement can be found nowhere else in Europe. The cathedral and its valuable treasure, the Zollverein colliery- part of the World Cultural Heritage with the Ruhr Museum, the renowned Folkwang Museum designed by the famous architect David Chipperfield, the Old Synagogue, the Aalto Opera House, the Philharmonic Concert Hall and the new ThyssenKrupp Quartier are just some of the many highlights that make Essen so attractive.

Because of the advantageous central location, Essen can be easily reached from every European country within 3 hours. The International Rhine-Ruhr airport in Dusseldorf has connections to about 190 cities in Germany, Europe and other continents. With the airport express bus, taxis or the ICE express train you can get to Essen main railway station or to congress venue in 20 to 25 minutes. Essen main railway station is the starting point for more than 120 ICE, InterCity, EuroCity and InterRegio train connections for all destinations in Germany and other European countries.

The 20th Conference on General Thoracic Surgery will provide a wonderful forum for you to refresh your knowledge base, to meet and interact with leading scientists and physicians of thoracic surgery and explore the most up-to-date information regarding the science and advances in the diagnosis and treatment of benign and malignant thoracic diseases. The 4th Collaborative Symposium on General Thoracic Surgery, the Techno Meeting, presentations from leading experts, Oral and Poster Abstract presentations in the field of thoracic oncology as well as industry and non-industry supported symposia will provide delegates with information on the latest developments in basic science and surgical treatment. A special Young Investigator's Session and hands-on training sessions will be held on 11 June, covering an array of special topics of great interest to young investigators and are specifically designed for those in the early stages of their career.

In addition to an outstanding scientific program, you will be able to enjoy unique sights and culture of Essen and the Ruhr Area. Visit world renowned art galleries and historic sites, take a tour in industrial culture, discover the city at your own pace and participate in an extraordinary social program.

We hope you will join us for a conference of outstanding science, and take a little extra time to enjoy the unique beauty of Essen, the Ruhr Area and its surroundings.

We look forward to welcoming you to Essen

ABSTRACT SUBMISSION

Participants are requested to submit abstracts online to the Conference Secretariat from Thursday, 1 December 2011 until Tuesday, 31 January 2012.

Please note that abstracts will not be accepted unless they are submitted according to the format and instructions described and posted on the Conference website: www.estsmeetings.org/2012.

Please submit your abstract via: <http://abstracts.webges.com/ests2012>

If, for some valid reason, you are unable to submit your abstract in the format described on the website or encounter any problems with your online abstract submission, please contact the help-desk:

ests@webges.com. Hard copies (by e-mail or fax) of abstracts will not be accepted.

The programme committee will meet 09 - 10 March 2012. The best abstracts are selected based on the average score by the reviewers from 2 rounds and allocated for presentations in oral, forum, case report, video or poster.

Abstract acceptance and programme scheduling will be communicated to the corresponding author's e-mail address early April 2012.

For your abstract to be included in the final scientific programme, it is mandatory to register for the congress and to settle payment as soon as you have received the notification of abstract acceptance.

Abstracts will be published in a supplement of the Interactive Journal for Cardiovascular and Thoracic Surgery.

IMPORTANT:

ESTS expects that all speakers presenting in oral sessions as well as all ESTS prize winners submit full manuscripts to the European Journal of Cardio-Thoracic Surgery (EJCTS) or Interactive Cardiovascular and Thoracic Surgery (ICVTS) for review one month after the meeting at the latest.

This ensures that the key proceedings from the congress are accurately recorded in the Society's journal along with the ensuing discussion. Note that the Programme Committee will consider the previous manuscript submission record of all speakers when preparing future ESTS meetings.

Submission for review of forum, case report, video or poster presentations to either EJCTS or ICVTS is optional but welcomed.

ESTS requires that all speakers competing for the Brompton & Young Investigators Prizes sessions submit full manuscripts by e-mail to the Chair of the Programme Committee (sue@ests.org.uk) one month before the meeting at the latest, since these papers are included in the total scoring by the jury. ESTS strongly advises the authors to hold electronic submission to EJCTS until after their oral presentation and the ensuing discussion. This will help to improve the quality of their manuscript and increase the chance of being accepted for publication in EJCTS.

The audio-visual recording of the scientific presentations will be the property of the ESTS.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ABSTRACT SUBMISSION

Detailed abstract submission information is available on the website: www.estsmeetings.org/2012

GALA DINNER

TUESDAY, 12 June 2012

Colosseum Theater

Altendorfer Straße 1, 45127 Essen

The Gala Dinner will take place at Colosseum Theater.

The Colosseum Theater is a former mechanical workshop which belonged to the company Krupp and is a prime example of the area's industrial culture and the transition that has taken place in the region.

The building, which is one of the most interesting theatres in Germany, formerly marked the boundary between Essen's city centre and "Krupp City". The mine and steel-producing industries ruled from here and steel set the tone. The atmosphere in this musical theatre is one of a kind due to a mix of history and modernity.

Today popular musicals, such as "Elisabeth", "Aida", "Phantom of the Opera" and "MAMMA MIA!" add to this atmosphere. This listed building with its industrial relics is now dressed up in noble design and modern art.

Make sure not to miss this evening to celebrate the conference's success and to bid farewell to your colleagues and friends! The prizes and awards will be presented at the Gala Dinner.

OPTIONAL TOURS

Monday, 11 June 2012

Dusseldorf and Rhine River

Departure by bus at 10 am from the congress centre.

10.45 am – 12.15 am:

Guided tour through the old town of Dusseldorf

The famous Old Town is a wondrous square kilometre that has more to offer than any other district in Dusseldorf.

This is where the waiters ("Köbesse") are diamonds in the rough, where the next beer comes without it being ordered. More than 260 pubs line the "longest bar in the world".

But it's not only body and soul that will feel great in Dusseldorf's Old Town: the district will also provide intellectual stimulation because this is where most of the state capital's art and cultural venues are to be found (e.g. Art Collection Northrhine-Westphalia, Northrhine-Westphalia Forum for Culture and Business, Museum Art Palace and the Film Museum).

Dusseldorf's centre is also home to some of the city's most beautiful churches. For instance, the Sankt Lambertus Basilika, which was first built in the 13th century, and which with its twisting spire helps make Dusseldorf's skyline unique.

You will also learn about the history and famous citizens of the city.

Half Day City Tour Essen

Departure by bus at 10 am from the congress centre.

This half day excursion includes a guided bus tour through Essen, a guided visit of Villa Hügel, a visit to Zeche Zollverein and impressive views from its rooftop as well as a guided visit of Folkwang Museum.

Completed in 1873, Villa Hügel served the Krupp Family as a home as well as for representation purposes for over 70 years. Since 1953, art and cultural history exhibitions have been taking place here following the initiative of the last company owner Alfred Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach.

UNESCO world heritage site Zollverein Coal mining and the new Ruhr Area

Once the largest and most modern colliery in the world, today the Zollverein Colliery is surrounded by nature and filled with art, culture and creativity. Whether on their own initiative, with a media guide or on guided tours, visitors can trace industrial history here. Men who worked on redhot furnaces here almost 20 years ago today guide visitors through the huge Zollverein Coking Plant.

(guided tour not included in the visit)

Folkwang Museum New building for great art

The Folkwang Museum is one of the most famous art museums in the world. The excellent reputation of the house can be primarily put down to its collection of sculptures and paintings from the 19th century, classical modern art, art after 1945 and photography. However, the rooms in which the art really become a pleasure are spectacular - and not only following the opening of the extension building in 2010: financed by the Alfred Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach Foundation and designed by David Chipperfield Architects, the Folkwang Museum welcomes its visitors with openness, transparency and a combination of light and topclass art that is second to none.

Entrance fees to Villa Hügel and Folkwang Museum included; lunch not included.

Price: 50 EUR per person

Minimum number of participants: 40

GENERAL INFORMATION ABOUT ESSEN

With ca. 570,000 inhabitants, Essen is one of Germany's ten biggest cities. In the last century, the city gained fame as the centre of the coal and steel industries in Germany, but viewed historically, the period in which these industries held sway was only relatively short. In the year 2002, Essen celebrated the 1150th anniversary of the convent and of the city of Essen. For around 1000 years, Essen was an ecclesiastical principality and was governed by abbesses.

Today, three-quarters of the working population of what was once the biggest coal mining city in Europe are employed in administration, the service industries and commerce. Some of the German companies with the highest turnovers have their administrative headquarters in Essen, including RWE AG, Evonik Industries (formerly RAG-Aktiengesellschaft), EON Ruhrgas AG, Karstadt Warenhaus GmbH and Hochtief AG. Thyssen-Krupp AG has its new headquarters on the historical site of the Krupp steel casting factory, including an academy, which will welcome up to 2,500 managers from all over the world.

Monuments of former industry stand as symbols for the city's successful structural transformation. The most famous landmark of the Ruhr region, the Zollverein Colliery, along with the adjacent area of the coking plant, has been listed as a World Cultural Heritage Site by UNESCO. But the colliery and coking plant are not museum-like, forbidden and forbidding places. PACT Zollverein, with its emphasis on dance, the North Rhine-Westphalian Design Centre with its internationally renowned "red dot design museum", and the Zollverein School of Management and Design have their offices at Zollverein XII. The RuhrMuseum will soon be moving into the historical coal washing plant.

A further imposing relic of the industrial era is the Colosseum at Berliner Platz. The historical factory building from around 1900, which formerly belonged to Krupp and where forgings and castings were once produced, is now one of Germany's most impressive musical stages.

"Change through culture - culture through change": the theme that palpably characterises the entire region and the city of Essen has also convinced Brussels. Essen, along with the Ruhr District, has been nominated by the European Commission as the European Capital of Culture of 2010. A title that acts as recognition of the work that has been done here over the years.

The Aalto Opera House has a name that extends far beyond the region - not only for its music, but also for the architecture of the building. The music theatre in Essen, under the leadership of its director and conductor-in-chief Stefan Soltesz, enjoys a reputation among critics that places it right among the leaders in the whole of Germany. As a concert hall with radiance - and resonance, even amongst international music stars - the new philharmonia in historic Saalbau has quickly played its way into the consciousness of music lovers. The "aalto ballett theater" is the best in the region, and the "Essener Sprechtheater" has twice been distinguished as the North Rhine-Westphalian Theatre of the Year: artistic director Anselm Weber convinces audiences with productions of classics, new works, performances and projects.

A collection of international renown can be found in Essen's Folkwang Museum.

"Villa Hügel", the former residence of the industrial Krupp family is a regular venue for world-class exhibitions of cultural history. And even apart from these special and exceptional exhibitions, the visit is worthwhile, for the beautiful park alone.

And generally, people who come to Essen for the first time are nearly always surprised: over 50 percent of the area of the city is green! Favourite places for the Esseners and their guests to relax are the banks of the River Ruhr and Baldeney Lake - or the "Gruga" - one of Germany's biggest and most beautiful city gardens.

SHOPPING

Today, most of Essen city centre is a pedestrian zone. But it is not only in the city centre that excellent shopping is to be had. Metropolis shopping: with the opening of the shopping center at Limbecker Platz, Essen is decidedly gaining ground in importance and denotation as an attractive city. More than 700 retail shops and boutiques are the reason why Essen's downtown area has been such an attractive shopping place of long standing, and its cultural centers of attraction are quite convincing.
